HOW TO WEAR THE KEY LOOKS NOW

Pregnant boutique owner Pippa Vosper, 40, tests the new season's bump-friendly frills

"I'm three months pregnant with my second child, and my style feels a bit more feminine than last time. I have an athletic body - I teach spinning as well as running RSPV, my fashion boutique in Notting Hill - and ruffles soften it. Also, while I'm in the early stages of pregnancy, they are doing an amazing job at hiding the bits I don't want to expose yet."

BOLD ON TOP, PLAIN BELOW

"The bright colour and the silhouette make this top flattering for any body shape or size. Pair any ruffle top with plain bottoms - wide or slim leg - because the outfit is busy on top. These cropped white trousers are fresh for summer, while the metallic shoes add an edge and stop the look from becoming too dressy."

BUY BIGGER TO FIT YOUR BUMP

"A killer shirt, great jeans and Manolo Blahniks: for me, this is the ultimate daytime outfit. I don't think your style should change just because you're pregnant. You can go through any designer collection and find pieces that will work - just buy a larger size and then have them tailored."
